

The amber lamp glowed softly above the quiet river bend.

"We should leave," Alice said.

Morning came at last over the mossy hill.